The screenshot shows the CDC Travelers' Health website. At the top, it says "CDC Home" and "Centers for Disease Control and Prevention". Below that is a search bar and a navigation menu. The main heading is "TRAVELERS' HEALTH" with the tagline "TRAVEL SAFE. TRAVEL SMART." A prominent banner reads "Ebola in West Africa" with a warning: "Warning: Avoid Nonessential Travel to Guinea, Liberia, and Sierra Leone". Below the banner is a form titled "VACCINES. MEDICINES. ADVICE." with sections for "For Travelers" and "For Clinicians". The "For Travelers" section includes a "Where are you going?" dropdown menu and a "What kind of traveler are you?" section with checkboxes for various traveler types. The "For Clinicians" section includes a "Destination" dropdown menu and a "Special population(s)" section with checkboxes for various special populations.
